CONTENTS

Foreword to the Second Edition 10
Acknowledgments 11
Preface 13

1 Introduction 14
   Approaching Art as a Mode of Thought 14
   The Concept of the Avant-Garde 16
   The Critical Point of View of this Book 18

2 New York in the Forties 20
   New York Becomes the Center 20
   Surrealism 20
   American Pragmatism and Social Relevance 24
   The Depression and the Works Progress Administration (W.P.A.) 26
   The Availability of European Modernism 28
   The Europeans in New York 30
   The Sense of a New Movement in New York 31
   Commonalities and Differences Among the Artists of the New York School 32
   Automatism and Action in the Art of the New York School 34
   Action and Existentialism 35
   Clyfford Still 38
   Adolph Gottlieb 38
   Franz Kline 39
   Friends in and around the New York School 39

3 A Dialog with Europe 42
   Alexander Calder 42
      Calder's Early Life and Themes 42
      Calder in Paris 45
      Cosmic Imagery and the Mobiles 46
   Hans Hofmann 52
      Stylistic Lessons from Europe 52
      Hofmann's Art Theory 54
      Hofmann's Painting 55
   Arshile Gorky 59
      Gorky's Life (Real and Imagined) 59
      The Development of Gorky's Style 61
      Gorky's Late Works 65
   Robert Motherwell 67
      Intellectual Affinities with the European Moderns 68
      Recurring Themes in Motherwell's Work 69
      Teaching, Writing, and Editing in Motherwell's Early Career 69
      Motherwell's Painting 70
   Willem de Kooning 74
      De Kooning's Training and Early Career 76
      The Dissolution of Anatomy into Abstraction 77
      The Anatomical Forms Dissolve into Brushstrokes 80
8 The European Vanguard of the Later Fifties 222

Nouveau Réalisme 222
Yves Klein’s Romanticism 222
Le Vide 224
The “Living Brush” 224
Seeking Immateriality 226
Klein’s Demise 228
The Nouveaux Réalistes 230

Joseph Beuys 231
Reveling the Animism in Nature 232
The Artist as Shaman 233
Art as the Creative Life of the Mind 234

British Pop: From the Independent Group to David Hockney 237
Key Figures of the Independent Group 237
The Exhibitions 237
Paolozzi and Hamilton as Artists 239
Reintegrating Popular Imagery into High Art 240
David Hockney 241

9 The Landscape of Signs: American Pop Art 1960 to 1965 244

The Electronic Consciousness and New York Pop 244
A Turning Point in Theory 244
Events that Shaped the Popular Consciousness 246
Collaging Reality on Pop Art’s Neutral Screen of Images 246

Andy Warhol 250
Warhol’s Background 251
Selecting Non-Selectivity 251
Eliminating the Artist’s Touch 253
A Terrifying Emptiness 253
The Factory Scene 256
Business Art and the “Shadows” that Linger Behind It 257

Roy Lichtenstein 259
James Rosenquist 261

H.C. Westermann, Peter Saul, and the Hairy Who 267
H.C. Westermann 267
Peter Saul 270
The Hairy Who 272

West Coast Pop 277
Funk Art 277
Peter Voulkos 280
The Politicized Cultural Climate of the Sixties 281
William Wiley 281
Ed Kienholz 283
L.A. Pop 283

Robert Arneson 286

Arneson’s Break with Conventional Ceramics 286
The Toilets 287
A Technical Breakthrough 287
Objects of the Mid Sixties 289
The Self-Portraits 289
Discovering a Political Voice 291
Introspection via Pollock 291

10 In the Nature of Materials: The Later Sixties 294

Back to First Principles — Minimal Art 294
Frank Stella 297
Donald Judd 299
Tony Smith 300
Carl Andre 301
Dan Flavin 303
Robert Morris 304
Sol LeWitt 306
The Los Angeles Light and Space Movement 307
Object/Concept/Illusion in Painting 309
A Focus on Surface Handling in Painting 310

Eva Hesse and Investigations of Materials and Process 311
Eva Hesse 312
The Direct Sensuality of Fiberglass and Latex 313

Bruce Nauman and Richard Serra 316
Bruce Nauman 316
Richard Tuttle and Richard Serra 318

Artists Working in the Landscape 323
Michael Heizer 323
Walter De Maria 326
Robert Smithson 327
An Accidental Rubric 331

Arte Povera, and a Persevering Rapport with Nature in Europe 332

11 Politics and Postmodernism: The Transition to the Seventies 338

Re-Radicalizing the Avant-Garde 338
The Critical Atmosphere of the Late Sixties 338
Language and Measure 340
Art from Nature 342
Vito Acconci: Defining a Conceptual Oeuvre 346
Body Art 347
Ana Mendieta 349
Lygia Clark and Hélio Oiticica 349
Performance Art 351
Nam June Paik’s Electronic Nature 352
Direct Political Comment 354
Marcel Broodthaers 354
Situationism 356
The Potential for Broader Political Action 356